Wednesday, May 26, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

The Medium: "Is electric pollution dangerous, Babuji?"

Yes, you know it very well, but it is more serious than you think. Among other things, all these means of communication that you value create turbulences not only in the atmosphere, but also in your body. They affect your nervous system. Some people are more sensitive to them than others. All these waves that criss-cross the Earth disturb many natural phenomena. The rhythms of nature are modified by them; this is done insidiously, you do not realize it. More serious phenomena will occur; it is inevitable. There is a threshold that should not be exceeded, but you are in a process which accelerates and which can no longer be stopped except by a catastrophe. By themselves, men will never be wise enough to go backwards. On the contrary, they will go wild; nothing will stop them!

"Being thwarted itself, nature will have to take the opposite course. Men are playing with fire, as always. But they possess at this time terrifying means. They have no respect for creation, so well organized. One should not forget that civilizations disappeared because they reached an extreme level of creative madness, which imperilled the universal order. When the crisis point is reached, the liberating dyke will open up and engulf all these monstrosities. Do not fear anything; that will not take place soon. Everything is planned in minute detail to stop men's frenzy, at the appropriate time."

Babuji