The Medium: "Is electric pollution dangerous, Babuji?"

es, you know this very well, but it is more serious than you think. Among other things, all these means of communication that you appreciate create turbulence in the atmosphere, but also in your bodies. They affect your nervous systems. Some subjects are more sensitive to them than others.

All these waves that crisscross the Earth disturb many natural phenomena. The rhythms of nature are modified by them.

This takes place insidiously, without your being aware of it. More serious phenomena will occur, it is inevitable. There is a threshold that is not to be crossed, but you are in a process that is accelerating and is no longer possible to stop, other than by a catastrophe.

By themselves, human beings will never have the wisdom to turn back. On the contrary, they will run wild; nothing will stop them. Nature, being thwarted, will itself have to take counter measures.

Human beings are playing with fire; that is nothing new, but they are, in this era, in possession of terrifying means.

They have no respect for creation, which is so well ordered.

It should not be forgotten that civilisations have disappeared because they reached an extreme point of creative madness that was putting the universal order in peril.

When the alarm stage is reached, a liberating floodgate will lift and engulf all these monstrosities.

Have no fear; this is not for tomorrow.

Everything is planned in the minutest detail to stop in due course the frenzy that has taken hold of human beings.
