Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, January 7, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

You are going through a difficult stage; try to remain calm without being affected too much by external events. Your sensitivity makes you feel, more than the majority of your fellow creatures, telluric movements, identified or not. The Earth is suffering and it shows it by certain inevitable reactions which man cannot easily assess; the most sophisticated machines currently available also do not have any power in that domain.

"Focus on the essentials. All has its raison d'être, as you know; you have sufficiently learned it from experience. Be strong, my child, you are blessed."
