Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

You see how good it is to love one's Master; one has to deserve such a state of soul. It is not a banal and simply human reflex. Such love goes well beyond the Master's physical person – it is not programmed according to reason. It results from a call of the heart, deeply felt. Experiencing it intensely is a rare blessing; it is totally sincere, being only inspired by higher purposes.

"It sometimes takes time to reach that achievement. Everyone progresses in one's own way, as paths are different; human beings have that privilege. Our spiritual way has the privilege of having a Master of high stature; that is what gives it its strength and its impact on hearts ready to follow it. They have that grace whose importance they do not assess very well in the long and risky process of this kind.

"The work of a Master worthy of that name goes far beyond this world; he clarifies the state of consciousness of the aspirant, facilitating his progress according to his commitment and his determination to continue towards the goal. May all our brothers and sisters realise how very blessed they are in their process and give their best, in terms of what we ask them to do, to facilitate their spiritual work!

"To take part in this vast movement that is soaring at the dawn of an era of great changes is a rare opportunity. All are accompanied and supported as far as the main things are concerned."
