Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, January 16, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Your heart longs to immerse itself in the ocean of Inexpressible Peace. A power attracts it. Without being able to resist, it leads the heart towards the shores where it knows it is awaited. To withdraw from the world and delight in the Divine, that is its major aspiration, its natural inclination. Expressing itself more and more over time, it develops in these contacts. It awaits them and asks for more. It loves infinitely; this is its primary vocation.

"Your mind, curious about the little things in life, was focused on all that seemed instructive and attractive. It learned and it was fed according to its needs and its intellectual curiosity. Then, time passed, leaving it as a spectator, no longer concerned with matters that do not belong to it. Its true identity having re-emerged from that tumult of thought, it now makes choices. Getting to the heart of the matter, it knows it is guided towards its abode and that alone motivates it every day.

"Look around yourself and get involved if necessary, but do not neglect the inner self, that which is growing, which develops and aspires more and more to be united with the supreme powers. The way is long and arid for each one, who copes in his own way with the means and determination to complete that task, which, over time, seems to be the only one worthwhile.

"Personal experience is unique and necessary to forge a noble soul. It is sometimes painful, but each stage is educational. When it is well led, it strengthens it and increases its stature, making it resilient in the face of adversity. In the secrecy of his heart, man, before God, knows that he is nothing but a breath of life emanating from His sublime greatness."
