Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, February 2, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

My child, as much as possible, remain in meditation, thus perpetuate the memory of this anniversary, which we lend importance to for good reasons, beyond those which have their justification in this world. As was often said, all has its raison d'être. The veil of illusion characterising this level of consciousness, does not allow everything to be revealed. Be that as it may, the beneficial effects of this day are felt in the hearts, insofar as they are receptive.

"Our Beloved Son is at the helm of this ship bearing the colours of our Mission, leaving in its wake a trail that is sacred and imperishable in the scale of time. We support it in all its actions, which are offered to us since his generous heart keeps devoting them to us. That is the behaviour of great men whose humility prevails over everything. They know that everything is transitory and illusory in this world; the only thing that matters is the immortality of the soul, in the regained purity of the total being.

"This Master, so very beloved by our aspirants, has managed to win over hearts, sometimes after a hard-fought struggle, but the result is there: transcending matter, he refines hearts engaged in that long process towards freedom. Our Mission, under his higher competence on all levels, has mapped out its way on several continents, linking hearts into one that bears only the divine seal.

"May our soul fill his soul and feed those of all our brothers."
