Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

The way of the heart is blissful; it determines the beauty of the path. Love is the energy that animates it; nothing matches this power. To reach this universe in stages is a grace. Privileged people who go through this process do not really realise their luck; we can only remind them of it. The day all men reach this stage will be a day of liberation for humanity.

"Men are struggling and suffering. It is the lot of everyone. With varying degrees of acuity, each person's karma lays down the relevant rules. To reach a certain level of wisdom allows one to look at life in a different way: it is easier to understand its many manifestations and to accept its principles. Human nature is complex and fragile. One's balance is subjected to all kinds of pressures. Being easily influenced, he bustles about without realising, sometimes, the consequences of his acts.

"To progress in the way of the Spirit is the true solution for him – whether he realises it or not is another matter. It takes time for that as the soul opens slowly and manifests itself with caution. Only purity can bring it to this state.

"To follow the way of the heart is to meet a natural inclination of the being aimed at harmony in its entirety. All is simple, in reality. Man complicates everything. His mind misleads him into all sorts of concerns, which generally make him neglect what is essential.

"Our aspirants have understood the importance of our method wherein the intellect does not prevail. Their practice brings them back to the simplicity of the heart, divested of the attributes of a so-called 'scientist', having understood that the truth was elsewhere."
