Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, February 28, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Look inward, there lies the truth. Man no longer takes time to interiorise himself. Caught up by the hustle and bustle of external life and with his senses being continuously on the alert, he neglects his true nature, that which connects him to the Ultimate. Many have understood it and seek the vital thread capable of guiding them back to the essentials. This is praiseworthy in this troubled world that grapples with all its turbulence, destabilising human beings.

"What he confusedly seeks is in him, in the heart of his being, in the secrecy wherein his own truth is concealed. The day he understands this, he will set off to discover that key capable of opening the doors of this sanctuary. He will henceforth put things into perspective and organise his life according to his aspirations. He will start a new process that, with time, will reveal himself to him.

"How many of our brothers have experienced this crucial moment in their life, bringing them to a process whose itinerary they scrupulously follow, having understood that it was constructive and redeeming? Is there anything more beautiful than the awakening of a soul being offered to the divine forces?

"Men go into raptures over the discovery of a planet or a thousand other things that are ultimately devoid of interest compared to what constitutes an essential element of their process. Only time can do its work; as usual we revert to this notion. Our brothers who have experienced this change in their life would not like to retrogress as they have eventually found the true meaning of their incarnation.

"To have that experience is an enrichment, to find one's way is a blessing; many look a long time for it before succeeding. When the moment has come, one should no longer dither. The strength of destiny propels the seeker where he is awaited. Thus an important phase of his process will start."
