Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, March 5, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Our hearts, joined together, surround that of our son who attracts all our attention. He makes a success of his mission by dint of so much effort; this is precisely what makes him glow. May our love carry him through each fibre of his being and bring him to the acme of success, that which cannot be appraised in the world of men.

"We follow his progress step by step, which also includes the entire Mission whose path in Earth time is as expected. It is developing, constituting a vibratory network in conformity with the needs of the new era. This one is not utopian; it belongs to the divine plans for this world at the dawn of a memorable turning point in its history.

"A pivotal period like this will necessarily create difficult times capable of destabilising not only human beings, but also various forms of life that are also disorientated in terms of their habits; these remarks can already be verified.

"Good will emerge from these trying times, after transformations have completely modified the existing structures. Another configuration will be established on Earth, which will be more conducive to the elevation of beings, not only human but also certain species. This elevation will result from the consequential changes, logical in terms of the principles of the laws of evolution.

"Science is based on principles which will need to be reviewed as it has not grasped the true meaning of life, that which does not abide by the laws established by men. Reality is beyond these nice theories that are characteristic of an era on the decline. The divine laws are inflexible; that is the way it is."
