Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Life's manifestation is transient. Its laws are not well grasped, as its true origin is not understood. It changes and evolves, adapting to circumstances mainly at the vibratory level where it takes place. All remains to be discovered on this aspect. A major element escapes researchers, which impedes a true understanding; having limited views, they do not go to the heart of the matter.

"The divine energy generates life in all its forms; its ceaseless movement has been creating renewable cycles since the dawn of time. Life on Earth is only a negligible element of this extraordinary action, which cannot be defined even by the best-informed people. Divine laws escape the creature; how could he understand them!

"A wise man must remain humble in front of the infinite which surpasses him. Can he really define himself? How? An infinitesimal piece of the vast universe, he must go on his way by respecting a life granted to him for his good and also for his environment, which unfortunately for him he neglects more and more.

"The movement is irreversible; base instincts prevail, characterising humanity in danger. Man feels the need to escape and does not want to see the truth. This movement will not stop by itself; the divine power will provide for it in its own way.

"Let us work towards wisdom by proposing a type of spirituality accessible to the human beings of this time. Many call for it. They are ready to lead their lives differently – lives which they have been living for a very long time and which no longer suit them. May they find their way: that which will bring them back to a more correct life."
