Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, March 14, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Whether he is conscious or not, a human being needs to be in contact with this energy, an emanation of the Divine, connecting it to the source. When awareness of this aspect takes place in him, he seeks a means that can put him more completely in tune with it. Thus begins a quest that will not finish. Everything will not be easy, but what can one easily obtain in this area? The stakes are worth it; one should not back down.

"When a soul opens up to the divine splendour, all seems different. What remains is for the aspirant to reconsider his life, knowing what his priorities are. Another light is shed on what, until then, had seemed essential to him. It takes time to understand the true meaning of an incarnation stripped of useless aspects.

"Man loads himself down with so many mental constructions hindering his progress. A spiritual process will lead him to becoming lighter and to progress according to the requirements of his subtle being. This way is beautiful where, little by little, he is refined and asserts himself in his quest that has become essential to him.

"A soul opening up to the Divine, to the love it generates, to the initial beauty – that is what we wish for all human beings.

"This day will come; things change. Inevitably, the final destiny of humanity will come to an end. It will not happen tomorrow. Our brothers can still design projects, but more importantly may they not deviate from their path and devote themselves to the process they are following without wasting time. Time is much shorter than they think."
