Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, March 31, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Look back at the way you have come: didn't it leave behind some truths intended for our brothers throughout these messages! In these messages, we do not claim to give a new teaching full of staggering revelations; such is not the purpose of these writings. They encourage our readers to interiorise themselves, to keep a check on themselves in the face of the fluctuations of life. Their purpose is to help them in their spiritual quest, which requires daily repeated efforts.

"In that way, we accompany them over time, sharing their joys and sorrows in a more concrete way through these few lines given for them. They are an expression of our interest for all who are following their Earthly path and facing all that is related to it, according to the rules of this world.

"Time will tell what reception these messages will get. Diversity also exists within our Mission. Be that as it may, they will be given a choice place in the future. There is not even general agreement about our books; this is how human beings are – it is in the nature of things. The most open-minded people will feel, through these lines, the voice of wisdom that appeals precisely to their own wisdom, insofar as they pay attention to it.

"This work has not been in vain, believe it. My son recognises its validity; in his great wisdom, he will be able to make the most of it for the good of all. Only true simplicity manages to touch hearts; they are not mistaken. Some tones make them vibrate more deeply than big theories developed intellectually. All can find in our Mission what corresponds to them and is especially essential for them."
