Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, April 23, 2005 – 3:30 p.m.

To my son,

"My beloved son, you have received a lot and you have devoted your full capacity to this weighty endeavour of Sahaj Marg, yet your mission is far from being finished. Your successor will have to do a lot of work; it is wise to prepare him to assume it under your higher authority. He will need to undergo a lengthy training: serving God and humanity is not always easy.

"We are reaching a turning point in the history of our way. It must specify its goals and strictly adhere to the traditional teaching, while opening a door on this special means of touching hearts with writings coming from the world of the Spirit.

"A spiritual Master must also be able to make decisions and cope with people who are disconcerted by this innovation – which you are doing brilliantly for the good of all. He thus shows his aptitude for facing up to all situations in order to help our brothers and sisters in their process. We cannot go further today; we will come back to this.

"Be at peace, my dear son, and carry on your way. This celebration is an additional milestone. Continue to illuminate our Mission with your presence, your stature and your aura, as per your greatness. We love you and admire you; we are with you, as you know, and especially on this forthcoming special day.

"Be blessed, oh so blessed, and be strengthened; all is well."
