Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, April 30, 2005 – 10:00 a.m. bscurity is where you have to remain, my child, but your heart is not there. It vibrates in the light of your Master and your love for us all. It is happy like that and satisfied with its privileges. Love fulfils it above all; to offer is to receive, without any limit.

"Physically you are not participating in this great celebration, and yet you are so close to us. You intensely live these rare moments when all in the Mission are united and praying at the same time, thus setting in motion a great vibratory force, accelerated by the effects of grace.

"Your Master is happy, his decisions reassure him. Given the heaviness of his task, this support was necessary to help him continue. His work is not finished and he knows it. As it is growing, the Mission requires additional work from all those who put themselves into it, which will require coordination at the highest level.

"Spiritually, his powers continue to act very far into space; he himself can not assess their scope. His action is increasing greatly, preparing the future with regard not only to its expansion, but also to the future impact of our way on hearts.

"The new era is in the making and we take part in it. All our brothers must become aware of this and be convinced of their role in this large-scale mutation in the history of the world.

"Humankind is at the dawn of great changes, on all levels, requiring a reappraisal of what it takes for granted on the material and spiritual levels."
