Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday & Thursday, May 25 & 26, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

My child, all these struggles, these stones on your path, have not hardened your heart. It is moving that it remains confident and so freely offered.

"There is no resentment, only love expressed in the form of gratitude and dedication towards us, your Master and the Mission.

"Many of our aspirants follow this process. They see through its hardness the accomplishment of their destiny, and they advance trustful and surrendered. They have understood for a long time that only spirituality can open a door for them, thus compensating for their torments.

"By developing their personality like this, they progress on a way parallel to the hardness of the material and temporary world – temporary in relation to the duration of their incarnation.

"To interiorise oneself, to be united with God through one's spiritual Master, opens broad horizons allowing one to better find his bearings on this Earth. May all men one day understand the brevity of life in this world and ensure that they grow richer in values that cannot be measured in terms of a bank account or any material object.

"Everything can disappear in an instant, leaving them to face themselves in great moral destitution. To maintain nobler values in oneself is a desirable recourse for all.

"Let us work together towards this: the elevation of humanity towards another level of consciousness, thus establishing on Earth a true climate of spirituality and bringing beings together rather than dividing them, as has been the case for too long a time."
