Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, May 27, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

May your heart remain haloed with the radiance of love, thus is accomplished its higher destiny. See only the beauty of the Immutable, the greatness of the universe, and the divine power manifesting in each atom of life, the representation of which you express in this world. Do well what you have to, with unfailing faith; your stay on Earth is short – you know this.

"Remain confident and determined to act as well as possible for the love of your Master, who has taken his true place in your heart, and for the love of us who also watch over you – over who you are and what you are doing every day to serve us. Do not surrender; the moment has not come. A few messages are yet to be noted down, if you so wish. Yes, some of them are repetitive, but they also bring new elements capable of feeding our readers.

"They already have an effect in many hearts who enjoy the opportunity to access this book, which unfortunately, and for various reasons mentioned previously, many cannot benefit from.

"The first step has been taken and it is important. My son's decision testifies to the willingness to forge ahead and ensure that our aspirants take part in this great mystical feast, offered to hearts receptive to a truth hidden for too long and even overused by ignorant detractors. Imposture is everywhere in the world of men, which is not the case here.

"May all our brothers and sisters trust us and advance peacefully and with all consciousness in the way of the triumphant Spirit, which liberates them from the taboos and obscurantism which have reigned for too long here below."
