Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Saturday & Sunday, June 11 & 12, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

The refined perceptions of our brother Fausto are a model of sensitivity, foreshadowing what will emerge in the new era. Many of our aspirants do not have access to these messages and deplore this for the reasons already mentioned. It is good to note how they favourably react to this reading, thus acknowledging its new tone and spirit elevating them above this world of matter, for which they deeply yearn.

"This publication represents an outstanding step in our way. A wider dissemination will fulfil many hearts in their aspiration to be lifted up towards another vibratory level, which the most refined of our readers can sense beyond the words. This concerns all of them and they will benefit from this reading, depending on their ability to truly grasp them.

"My son has opened a door on the world of the Spirit. This door will keep widening, towards a truer understanding of phenomena by our aspirants. At the dawn of a new era, it is good to look forward and try to understand what governs the world beyond human competence, by leaving behind what seemed to be reliable points of reference.

"In this difficult period of history when the same issues of disorder arise in all countries, creating the same concerns about the future of humanity, it would be good for man to carry out an assessment of the sensitive aspect of his life and of what is immortal in him.

"In the material world, what can he change? The solution lies beyond his competence. On the other hand, the onus is on him to manage his spiritual life. We will never insist enough on this point; time passes so quickly.

"This compilation of messages has its raison d'être, including the order in which they are given. May they one day, like a bountiful and generous hive, nourish the hearts of all our brothers.

"Blessings to all."
