Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, June 13, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Life in this world is far from having revealed all its secrets. The level of matter is its grossest expression. Being greatly complex, it is not really grasped by men, as the veil of illusion conceals its essential principles.

"How can one make men accept what they cannot objectively assess? Logic, in the present state of affairs, does not enable them to surpass this stage.

"The world of the Spirit is within their reach. When its door has opened for them as widely as possible, many ways of reasoning that are supported by wrong theories highly valued today will no longer have any meaning. Hence the absolute necessity, in our way, to stay aloof from them.

"Our place resides elsewhere and is based on principles that escape the laws of this world, those recognised by men. It perpetuates a truth, which for men has no irrefutable evidence, according to their limited assessments.

"Our path makes its way to a promising future where pointless theories are irrelevant. The current world awaits novelty, the latest trend; anything is an excuse for shying away from the true work of interiorisation. Humans are unceasingly caught up by the attraction of new images, of mental perceptions that make them cogitate and run away from a world that increasingly overtakes them due to its excesses of all kinds.

"Our way, at all costs, must strictly adhere to its basic principles, without adding anything to them that would divert our aspirants from the real goal of their process.

"Thus is our Mission standing at the dawn of great upheavals."
