Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, July 4, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Time is pressing, as we have said often enough. The well-informed man must become aware of this situation and work accordingly, within himself and around him, to improve himself mentally and spiritually while getting to the heart of the matter.

"He should no longer be lost in vain processes and inappropriate assumptions, but grasp within himself the ferment of truth capable of enlightening him in his quest, with senses appeased, in the heart of silence where the true process resides. There lies the beginning of wisdom: that which lifts up the being and directs him, according to his progress, towards what constitutes the ferment of his evolution, the level of consciousness corresponding to him.

"Our method, in its great and apparent simplicity, conceals possibilities indiscernible by the ordinary man. He is smitten by innovations and methods boosting his ego, his imagination, but which are not in line with a real process capable of elevating him vibrationally. These concepts remain unknown to some people, yet they do their best and prepare for more convincing steps going forward.

"Each person receives to the extent that he is able to understand highly spiritualised principles. This takes place according to strict criteria governed by divine laws related to a planned evolution.

"Humanity has reached a turning point in its history. What will it do? Will it become aware of the aberration of this currently troubled world while there is still time? It seems that only events of extreme importance can sensitise humans to the tragedy that is taking place here below and to which they attach no real importance."
