Wednesday, June 2, 1999 - 10:00 a.m.

The conclusion of all that has been said is that there are two possible roads to follow. The choice is yours. You can either stroll around as you see fit, thus considering yourself fortunate (for you, life is long, and should be enjoyed), or take no chances by not resting on your meagre assets. Not everyone can belong to the elite. Except for very special cases, we grant to each one of you the same opportunities. It's up to you to make sure that what you receive grows. We have alluded to the leading pack; it sets the pace and leads those who can follow it.

"We are proceeding in our comments, slowly, bit by bit, so as not to frighten the weakest. You should know that you all receive the same care and our tenderness. We want to take you along, without distinction, towards the greatest possible success. Surrender completely to the Master; offer to him your great forces without any least resistance as well as a soil ready to receive the divine seed. Be blessed."

Babuji