Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, July 6, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear child, do not always expect to be understood by people around you; your access to the world of the Spirit gives you reference points which others do not have. Continue on your road here below, surrendered and trustful in us, as you have always been since the beginning of the story of these messages. It is being structured in time and space. See how my son is laying its foundations; only he could do it, as his spiritual dimension places him on a level respected by the most sceptical of our brothers and sisters.

"By taking a stand supported by judicious arguments, he defends this cause with competence and his usual ardour. This ardour supports him in the most delicate actions that he carries out and is akin to the ardour of men who influenced this world. The brook cuts a path in the arid soils of the world of ignorance. These writings do not constitute a literary work, as pointed out by some of our readers whose approach to them remains superficial.

"Regardless, these messages introduce into our way the beginnings of a spectacular progress, from which it will keep benefiting. Simple sentences and the apparently most insignificant arguments can yield the best effects in the souls that are well prepared to feel them. Remain serene, my child. Anything done out of unselfish love, which is your case, is blessed by the gods. Surrender to the divine heart of your Master, he has full power to glorify yours."

Babuji