Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, July 7, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Love your Master, my child; this is the secret. Your bonds must yet be strengthened to go deeper in this relationship that is so special to you both. Your destinies are interwoven; you made no decision about this in this life, but thus is the higher will achieved, the reasons of which must remain hidden from both parties. Our son brings fame to our Mission brilliantly, holding well the reins capable of guiding it on the material level, while his spiritual vocation is being carried out. He will deeply influence the structures of the Mission. This period will remain crucial, as concerns the establishment of the rules governing it.

"Everything possible must be done to protect it from predators; they are bound to exist. A way like ours, being established in the world of men, will cause some to be disturbed as it expands among them.

"Humanity cannot be indefinitely confined to the same references concerning spiritual values; the evolution of human beings will lead them to look for support that is more appropriate to the time and to what they will feel inwardly. So has it always been in history. Even through force, no one will be able to oppose this expansion of consciousness meant to foster a complete change of mentalities.

"Time will do its work as planned. Our way will follow its path and our fervent ones will go on their way, as per their personal dispositions, coupled with our blessings."
