Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, July 10, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

My child, forget the inevitable vicissitudes of this world and lift up your thought. See only the beautiful, the unique, the Divine in its purest manifestation.

"May your soul be fed at the source, that which gives life, eternal in the absolute. This speech will be repeated tirelessly; no other speech could be given to man, grappling with the throes of his Earthly existence. All the nice philosophical theories sooner or later come back to this statement, to becoming effectively aware of the divine power leading human beings to a new dimension in their process. This step is decisive and critical. Little by little, the doors of knowledge will open to him, and according to his ardour, secrets will be revealed to him, those capable of strengthening him in his quest for the Divine.

"This real aspiration of the heart does not result from man's natural curiosity. It lies far beyond; only the divine being can inspire it and make it grow according to the innate aptitudes of the seeker. Certain paths are followed openly; others are followed in obscurity and the silence of the heart. All, sooner or later, achieve the same results; only a fervent faith motivates them and fulfils their wishes. Is there anything more beautiful than the progress of a soul offered to divine love? It gives strength to the weakest, and to those appearing most destitute, it gives the capacity to surrender completely to the divine will.

"All is so simple. Actually, the aspirant must calm his mind and find the key capable of opening the holy door for him, hence the simplicity of our method. The wisest have understood that the secret was there. Others continue to seek complicated formulas, satisfying their intellect. Happy are those who can put things in perspective and offload useless aspects. May they be blessed."
