Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, July 13, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

We still have some way to go together if you so want, and especially if you can manage. Your heart is willing to follow us. It is unfailing and this is what matters in this special relationship where commitment must be unfailing. My child, your heart never waned; your constancy in serving us has been maintained up to the present only by such a bond of love, which motivates it. Great figures that influenced the spiritual life of this world belong to this category.

"Love, this energy that is so special, acts in the secrecy of hearts. It is constructive, much more so than the force applied by statesmen, which ultimately does not settle any dispute. Problems come and go, but neither hatred nor the need for revenge is abolished. Conflicts on this Earth are permanent because of the thirst for domination, this persistent interest that is a major component of men.

"If they reached a higher level of consciousness, they would be able to see through these behaviours, which stem from a lack of evolution and awareness of good and evil. In the present state of affairs, nothing will be resolved nor will violence be curbed; it is escalating dangerously and will reach its climax in the times to come.

"On the other hand, beautiful spiritual forces will keep developing. Many souls thirsting for the Divine will leave their mark by their future achievements. This aspiration to an intense spiritual life will be satisfied, as it is in line with the new era. Before that happens, miasmas of the current world will have to give way to beautiful creative energies of good that foster the expansion of consciousness."
