Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, July 18, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Love cannot bloom in a heart with the wave of a magic wand. It is the fruit of a long process, which we foster by levelling the path. Our way has the necessary assets; we are not the only ones, but in our own way we are serving a very important cause having at its disposal sizeable means.

"When the time comes, hearts will blaze with a dazzling light hitherto ignored on the Earth. May all our brothers work from this point of view, for themselves and for the whole of drifting humanity! When and how, we cannot tell. The divine laws are like that. Staggering revelations made here and there are to be considered with caution. Until the end, the divine omnipotence will keep its secrets; it is in the nature of things.

"What matters is to work towards this regeneration; it will prevail within the framework of a change of level of consciousness, transforming beings on all levels. This evolution will also operate on physical bodies, modifying the cellular nucleus, making it more permeable to the divine life and to its vibration. Purified and rejuvenated, the human race will be able to face up to difficulties. Difficulties will abound; a readjustment to the elements will be necessary. The way of life for humans will have to conform to their laws.

"These times will not happen soon, but one must prepare for them today. This world cannot shift to a completely different status in such a short period of time. Everything occurs at the pace of the rules in force; when that pace has quickened, our role will lose its current requirements so that it can comply with the spirit of the moment."
