Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, August 3, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

The time has come when men must know that it is possible to communicate with what they call the 'beyond'. The spirit does not die; only matter changes according to the laws of this world. The spirit is released from its dross, and it continues its evolutionary trajectory, according to its personal particulars.

"The new era will reveal, in many ways, the reality of these phenomena considered by many human beings to be a deception. God wills it so; all must change in this world, on this aspect in particular. Genuine mediums exist. We testify to it through these messages for the good of our brothers, all those who trust us and go beyond the generally accepted ideas on many subjects, including this one.

"Charlatans exist in all fields; this is inevitable in this world given over to all possible excesses. Humanity, while evolving towards good, will be released from harmful prejudices and will advance with a broadmindedness that can revive it. A complete upheaval will foster this process. All will be called into question, including in those fields that are currently considered certainties by the majority of men. Their conception of life will need re-examining. By freeing themselves from materiality, other prospects will open up before them, from which new convictions closer to reality will take shape. The laws of evolution manifest themselves in all their pervasive power while a new decisive stage for the future of this world approaches.

"To God, nothing is impossible. May men not forget it, under penalty of being struck down by reality."
