Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, August 7, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

What you are doing regarding these messages testifies to a total commitment to serve and entails a special way of life. It is about your choice, your vocation and the bonding of our souls, which take precedence over all the rest. Without love, would these messages have the same complexion, the same breath? Here it is the heart that expresses itself and not the intellect. Yours is craving to meet again with its Master on this Earth. He will decide according to his possibilities. His resources are surprising, both physically and spiritually. He is, for us all here, a permanent source of amazement.

"These writings are a beautiful story, whose pages will be part of the history of our way, thus giving it a special lustre. Without the divine love that performs many miracles here below, how would this world have survived so long in the darkness of ignorance, where vice, so entrenched in human nature, keeps manifesting itself?

"Like a beneficial breath, love cleanses hearts and elevates them above their condition. All in our way must contribute to this wonder. The era of the future will be one of victory of the positive over the negative, of light over darkness, and knowledge over ignorance from which this world suffers so cruelly. The language of the heart, in terms of its most elevated aspects, must have free rein to express itself, on the condition that it remains within its remit: that of divine inspiration.

It leads to the most secret ways where souls seek their celestial food. May we, through these lines, bring them to the transcendence of the Spirit!"
