Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, August 17, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Interiorise yourself, my child. Only there will you find peace, that which your soul is craving for. Peace is not of this world, you know this. It escapes, being a subtle essence that has nothing in common with the heavy vibration of this world. Let your spiritual heart be fed with this subtle essence, as much as it can in this very special contact with ours. By reading us, our brothers and sisters who are sufficiently attentive will feel the effects of this vibration produced by our remarks.

"We did not give you all these messages, which have accumulated over time, without their resulting in very beneficial effects for our Mission. Happy are the wise hearts that can appreciate a simple speech, divested of aspects that are useless in the context that interests us here. Man of the future will be able to put things into perspective and return to a sense of simplicity capable of satisfying them by enlightening them about their destiny.

"Our spiritual way will keep growing all over the world, which is thirsting both literally and figuratively, and coming up against countless difficulties that today's man cannot comprehend. Today's man keeps complaining. Always dissatisfied with what constitutes their life here below, they cannot see the uniqueness of what it offers to them in their process of initiation. Will they need to lose everything for them to become aware of what they had? We have made enough predictions; we don't need to insist any more. Will they touch our readers to the extent of making them change? It seems not, therefore, come what may."
