Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Monday, August 22, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Let your heart enthral in loving us. Can you imagine the rare energy it engenders in these blessed moments? If all men knew and benefited from what the holy mysteries of this spiritual heart conceal, the face of the world would change. Many of them live in hatred; they are fed with it throughout their lives, always finding a reason to apply the evil it generates, either in the form of racial conflicts or otherwise. Happy are those who turn away from evil and try to establish in themselves a no-man's-land of peace and love. They undoubtedly make a success of this incarnation by opening up to other spaces.

"May these messages touch their target and not leave our brothers and sisters indifferent – those who will take the trouble to pay attention to them and go beyond a superficial reading. They conceal much more richness than it seems. It is through dedication in a serious approach that they will benefit from the ethereal substance of these messages. Only love, this subtle and rare energy, will be able to save the world in its most critical and testing phase for life in all its forms.

"We can never insist enough on the necessity for humans to thoroughly question themselves. By tirelessly repeating ourselves, we will eventually touch hearts and make them receptive to a form of wisdom capable of transforming their life and hence attract their fellow creatures to this luminous way. May all be helped in their search for the Divine – only this search will not disappoint them."
