Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Thursday, August 25, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Dear blessed souls, no, your discoveries are not over yet and they will only really start when you leave this world and completely enter a vibratory frequency corresponding to your respective levels. Your paths are not ordinary, unlike those of many human beings. Becoming truly aware of this must help you endure the heaviness of this world where you are incarnate and all the difficulties it will keep bringing your way.

"Not everyone has access, as you do, to vast horizons, where, beyond human limits, you manage to communicate by exploring other levels of consciousness. This capacity has been exceptionally granted to you. Who better than you can come back with reliable impressions of these contacts, and not sensational stories aimed at arousing the curiosity of our future readers.

"Remaining temperate in one's comments so that they are not distorted and misinterpreted is a priority. Your respective personalities meet this expectation. Our choices are justified by the rules of wisdom and a rigour that we all abide by here. The sensational has to be excluded from these writings. These writings only give an idea and suggest some elements of reflection, together with many hints likely to be perceived by our most refined readers, concerning a world that is completely unfamiliar to them. You are our elite 'reporters', in this business. May it be seen through to completion under your respective capabilities."
