Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, August 28, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Your soul is receptive to universal beauty; a thousand nuances of the multiplicity of the worlds are reflected in it. By opening up generously to the Divine, one receives never-ending treasures that cannot be assessed in this artificial world. An incarnation is an opportunity for the expansion of the soul in its thirst for merging with the Ultimate. All must go in that direction. It is our absolute priority to awaken people's consciousness to divine realities; our way provides for that.

"The worlds interact with each other at unimaginable levels, hence the need for a total evolution of humanity. This requirement is getting stronger every day, given mankind's immaturity and ignorance of respect for life in all its forms. Mankind must grow and widen their vision of the world where they live, to align it with a very vast system escaping them completely in the current state of their capacities. Future times, with the broadmindedness they are expected to bring, will allow a more realistic approach to phenomena governing this world.

"Man will be able to find his bearings more intelligently in this context where he currently believes he reigns over life surrounding him. Man will have to become disenchanted and question himself completely, and also re-examine his relationship to others. A notable broadening of consciousness will shake up people's customs for the greater good of a stagnant and worrisome humanity, which is currently sinking.

"A great divine breath will bring necessary changes; these are awaited by many human beings who are no longer managing to find their place in a society that is currently drifting. May all our brothers become stronger in their faith and their motivations."
