Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

No, we are not yet finished [with these messages]; would you mind continuing for a while? These contacts punctuate your life; they are the salt, which seasons and gives it a special dimension by putting it in phase with ours. You did not ask for anything, yet you received. The love that inspires you prepared the ground to favourably receive the divine seed. Only humility allows you to manage the situation as is proper, and we appreciate it.

"From there on, all is possible. Our contacts are taking place in a serene climate and they are a balm to your heart. When our aspirants want to devote a moment to reading us, they should prepare themselves and they will feel in themselves the effects of the grace that governs the writing of these messages. This reading will favourably impact the condition of our abhyasis. This is the purpose for which they were given; they should not forget it. The teaching provided throughout these writings corresponds to the current time. They are more in harmony with today's man than all those given in former times, except for the fact that love for God and one's fellow creature remains a fundamental law and a priority.

"Human concerns evolve with the centuries, but the duty and the respect towards God, the creator of all things, remain immutable. Our way offers a range of possibilities, of which the benefit of the essential action of a living spiritual Master is the major element. May all our brothers and sisters fully benefit from these many advantages and progress as much as possible in the way of the Spirit."
