Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, September 11, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

You have been serving us for a long time and in a very special framework; for this reason you have a special place in our way, my child. These messages, with the passing of years, have taken on another character; this updating is in line with the awareness of our most faithful aspirants. Your deepest being needs this contact; it puts you in phase with a subtle energy, which your soul relishes. Our attentive and focused readers will also feel the effects of grace. The most persevering ones will seek this state, which is able to raise their vibrations and gradually bring them, as they read [these messages], to another state of consciousness.

"Doesn't all have its raison d'être? We have said it repeatedly, and we especially try to provide our readers with a wide range that can deepen their approach. Following a spiritual way entails not neglecting what it offers. The living Master goes on ahead and is the unique guide in this business; he takes advantage of all the means that he has to touch hearts.

"His role is essential; our aspirants cannot imagine to what extent all is being done to give him a wide scope of action for his work. He is chosen and will remain so, no matter what happens. In this context, his mission will continue beyond this world; this is how it goes in a commitment of this kind. Confronted with all sorts of difficulties, he nevertheless advances while opposing them, using the strength and spiritual powers he has.

"Everything in our Mission must contribute to the elevation of those who trust us and expect the best from their practice. They do not necessarily assess the results of their work, but they should be reassured: they are progressing... Blessings to all."
