Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, September 19, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Your image permeates throughout these messages; you are the link between the two worlds of men and Spirit, according to our understanding of it. Being a messenger entails complete dedication on your part, which you have been doing for a long time. Everything in our Mission is implemented to captivate hearts and bring them to a point of transcendence, going beyond their hopes. Only their commitment along with their perseverance will allow these results. A highly spiritualised life filters into them and transforms them little by little. With hindsight, one can see to which extent our way changes beings, without their even truly realising it. The human characteristics still manifest themselves, but the subtle being is refined considerably.

"Forging ahead while following the current of the new era – one that will foster this kind of process – falls under our Mission's plans for the future. There is no need to be distracted, to innovate. The foundations were laid once and for all; there is no need to review them. Time is doing its work, that's all. The Mission must remain focused on the essential goal. The current configuration of the elements fosters a spectacular acceleration and allows for appropriate spiritual progress. May all our aspirants become aware of this unprecedented change and the opportunity granted to them to belong to a spiritual way that goes beyond many taboos. For centuries, the latter has blinded humanity to the truth, which here they do not have to fear as to whether it would have a menacing and crippling effect on their evolution."
