Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Life has shaped and prepared you for this willingness of yours to follow us in a long journey of the Spirit in which our contacts generate these messages. Contrary to appearance, nothing has been easy for you. This asset is invaluable; without it, would your soul have the inclination that allows you to receive us? By detaching yourself as you are doing from worldly matters, your soul becomes receptive to your expectation and fills you with blessings.

"Surrender, as recommended so many times throughout these writings, starts to take on its true meaning. Every day, this reality is obvious to you, as a matter of course and not through reasoning. Following a way entails divesting oneself of useless aspects when the moment has come for it. Each stage is instructive on this point; willpower alone cannot resolve everything. So many experiences and struggles during a lifetime bring man to an awareness of their true nature. How many incarnations are necessary for that? Only the result is uplifting and exhilarating. When the soul opens up to the beneficial rays of love, the entire being is transformed and harmonised in a special vibration.

"Man carries on his way on Earth, but he is no longer alone in his struggles. A force resides in him and no longer leaves him. Being made more heroic by his deeply held convictions, he surrenders to the power of destiny. His confidence in our way becomes complete, and his Master is there for him. Could he have a better mediator? Thus, his lucidity is increased and his ardour to progress in the way is multiplied by ten. Having reached this point, there is no limit to what we can hope for. The divine life prevails over a basely material existence subjected to the excesses of an illusory world."
