Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, October 2, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

My child, only your soul matters. Your physical body is an instrument; it makes light of the movements of life serving its evolution. Regain stature, and forget your physical body in these moments when your heart is offered to us like a song, both sad and joyful, in which love is triumphant. Your heart appreciates these contacts where it can express itself in all its nobility and show its impulses without fearing any judgement, as is the case on Earth where men easily criticise and constantly distort the most beautiful feelings.

"Love is the beacon of your life; it has guided you in this long labyrinth where your reference is ours. Advance without fear, as the time of liberation will come; one has to earn it. Each step taken in our direction illuminates your way and strengthens you. Yes, once again we allude to love. Why should we avoid it when it is so desperately lacking in this world and a heart can be touched by the reading of these lines? Those who are not ready will quickly turn the page and will set out again in their usual activities which make them feel they exist. But who are they, except for a spark of the divine energy operating the engine of their life."

"Their permanent concern lies with the world of matter and they neglect the main things because they cannot know and feel in them the effects of grace, which they cannot yet identify. May the time of bliss come soon for them, strongly centred on the search for the Divine leading them through the secret doors of the kingdom of the Spirit where one has to conquer and earn it according to the laws of glorified love!"
