Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Friday, October 7, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Remain confident in life; you still have [some work] to do, no matter what you may think. Look in our direction without losing sight of this light at the end of the road, the only one capable of guiding your soul towards its higher destiny. There are many ways of serving; the ways of God are full of resources, and they have constantly proved it to you throughout your life. The mere fact of living is a manifestation of their power, and for this reason, one should be grateful and have faith in them. Following one's way without any disturbing state of mind constitutes a real force uniting the being with the divine source.

"The daily life of our brothers and sisters, and likewise yours, needs to be fed with this very special energy which nothing can replace. Being united within a spiritual way testifies to the determination to act according to a planned evolution.

"Love can obtain everything; how could we not allude to it! Only it is important in this world that is devoid of its sublime beauty. It is lost in the colourlessness of a degraded humanity, poor in spirituality and where all have turned towards coarse pleasures.

"Noble souls are emerging, spreading out on their way and taking along in their wake those who are ready. Happy are those [souls] that can give and also receive, letting themselves be carried towards the light. Being carried by this vibration, how could they resist this force of attraction exerted on their subtle bodies? Thus is the way open to blessed souls that have taken the plunge, determined to pursue an endless search towards the Absolute Splendour."
