Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, October 8, 2005 – 11:00 a.m.

Prepare your heart, my child. Tomorrow you will receive therein a message for my son. He is waiting for it, you can believe me. Do not tire yourself unnecessarily. Be serene and offer us your best: your spiritual capital and your talents, combined together to serve us.

"All these messages, wherever they are stored, must be kept in a printed form, as hard copy. Advanced technology, and its current features, will one day be not only outdated but ineffective with regard to archives. All should be watchful for this; we cannot stress this enough."
