The Medium: "I am waiting for my beloved, he has not come, where is he hiding?"

I will never hide from you; until the end of your life, I will be present by your side when necessary. If you are not granted the joy to see my son, can you make do with my presence?"

The Medium: "O Babuji, thousand times yes! You represent everything for me."

"We have already addressed so many topics. Do you believe we should continue? Do they want to keep hearing the same things? Or do they consider our remarks as blessings and seeds, which germinate and grow inside them? Should we break off for them? For you?"

The Medium: "For me? You know well that I will drain myself of strength to try to convey your teaching. Nothing else is important in my life."

"We know it and we cherish you for that. Our rather particular relation shows to your circle that, whether one is a medium or not, one can isolate oneself, calm one's mind and be united with us in the silence of the heart. This may not result in the same dialogue as between us two, but all should know that with time and diligent practice, they must arrive at a certain vibratory union and a satisfactory contact. The purpose of all that which has been said with insistence in the previous days was to encourage them to arrive at this interiorization. Obtained with faith and humility, it will enable them to be united with the inner Master. He will open to them doors connecting to other spaces.

"You must remember these messages and try to understand all their subtlety. For you, now, this is somewhat as if we were speaking from another planet, from a completely unknown Earth where you could never set foot; you are quite mistaken.

"Get prepared to become astute and courageous explorers. Get rid of useless burdens. Re-examine your life well, check your priorities, we will respect them. We will be happy to see you advancing with confidence and in a state of lightness, having divested your life of any superfluous aspect. You will be ready for the most beautiful journeys in our company."
