Rejuvenate yourself in the Immutable Peace. There lies the serenity to which your heart aspires and the unity that is recovered through a profound meditation. Rushed by life, often destabilised, man must face his destiny with no real escape, other than the one mentioned here. They spend their lives seeking diversions, indulging in numerous passions. Happy are those who understand where the truth resides and give it a predominant role. Thus, their understanding develops. As they can better grasp the meaning of their existence in this world, they pay more sustained attention to it, which then influences their choices in many circumstances.

"Making progress towards wisdom is a long process; cultivating in oneself an approach to the Divine is the best way to attain it. To see only the beautiful and good in a world offering such sad prospects is a commendable act of faith and hope in the perpetuity of a higher power acting for beneficial purposes. To build one's present life in this spirit is also to cooperate in the transformation of humanity, in its essential principle and in reference to the Creator. To call for the Ineffable within oneself is to open up to a higher energy capable of changing the being in its subtle aspect. Spiritual practice is an essential factor for realisation; it is a tool leading to broad prospects, whose importance man cannot measure. An incarnation is a unique opportunity; each one is given to man with a precise aim. It is up to them to not ignore and neglect it for frivolous pleasures.

"We wish all our aspirants to have the greatest lucidity and unfailing ardour in their spiritual process."
