Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, November 12, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Once again, today, our purpose will be to praise love. Men's world desperately lacks this dimension, hence its tragic situation at various levels, but especially on the whole planet. Love energy is not, shall we say, compatible with humanity as it is currently. To prepare people for a future change is possible; for the rest, time must do its work and allow the divine will to be accomplished.

"Caught in the mirage of illusion where they are, how could men have a correct view of things? The vibratory conditions are not yet met for an expansion of this subtle energy, capable of transforming the human heart in a very broad context with spectacular results. A real planetary revolution must occur before an era of peace and love is established here below for a regenerated humanity, under the effects of a highly-established divine principle.

"Men lack points of reference; the concern of most of them is to possess, while others lack the basic essentials. So has it always been in this world, but the pace thereof is accelerating; the consumer society hides true values, the only ones capable of stabilising men far from all kinds of aberrations which humanity succumbs to.

"Malaise exists in all parts of the world, planetary influences further add to the whole and men are not prepared to face up to things. Weakened by many types of pollution, they are wasting away from an alleged advance of progress – as they perceive it – without being aware of its detrimental consequences."
