Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, November 23, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Faith drives you to act, my child. Can you imagine your life without it? Would your life mean something, in the light of what you have experienced so far? How can one conceive of this stay on Earth without giving it a redeeming dimension? All philosophical thoughts are conducive to the blooming of faith, leading thereafter to surpassing them and interiorising more, to explore other secret shores, full of discoveries. Choosing a spiritual way is to take the necessary steps to advance in this direction, on a path all mapped out and full of experiences.

"The voice of an angel', as you heard it, is not a deception: these beings, which humans call angels, play a role in their lives and help them in many circumstances where they are helpless. You have yet to discover many things; your natural scepticism must, however, give way to a truth which your gifts don't allow you to hide. These beings of light care about humans grappling with such distressing torments in a world where all is possible in this realm, even to the extent of horror. They cannot prevent the inevitable, but their help is often effective and can save man in difficult situations. You see, after so many messages, it was necessary to mention this characteristic of the world of the Spirit. The best-informed cannot imagine its diversity and richness, which is impalpable for them and resides beyond their imagination. You have yet to discover many other aspects of this world; your work is not finished, my child."
