Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, December 10, 2005 – 10:00 a.m.

Your heart, as per its aspirations, thrives on this extraordinary love that motivates it each day to come towards us, sometimes under difficult conditions. The most beautiful songs, the most touching, generally emanate from a heart which has undergone all possible torments. Joy is also part [of its experience]. However, profoundness is acquired with time, after having weathered many storms that broke the heart, but for which it is grateful. Delight in this love, my child. It is all-powerful, and it opens doors, which cannot resist it. How will this love story be perceived by our brothers and sisters? To really understand it, one will also have to live it a little. To see themselves in this love story will be their most beautiful gift, allowing them to identify with this speech and to fully benefit from it.

"To let one's heart express itself is delectable and is not tantamount to sentimentality, as some people might believe if they have not yet understood where the true channel leading to the supreme goal resides. This kind of divinised love is spontaneous, or it is gained little by little, according to personal inclinations. Nothing, in this field, can be forced. These lines, through their great simplicity, aim to touch hearts. They have no other purpose. You may think that the spiritual life amounts to nothing really, but it still has to be truly understood and lived in all its splendour. By doing so, it offsets the deceptive effects of life in this world, by which the best-informed man is taken in. May hearts filled with joy from this gift reach the Ineffable Peace, under our blessings!"
