Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Sunday, January 8, 2006 – 4:00 p.m.

Our hearts will soon be reunited and will dance a celestial farandole in praise of their Divine Master who leads their destiny. They are offered to his love and his power of action, in the course of history which these writings belong to. All is vain in the world of humans, except for the service offered to the Creator of all things, in varied forms led by the hierarchy of ascended Masters.

"Our souls are united in Him. They live on His light – that which cannot be seen, but which exists and translates into an infinitely subtle vibration. Let us enjoy this moment of peace and harmony, which humans need so much to remember their divine origin, that Promised Land which is in them. They do not know it or refuse to admit it, seeking it in vain elsewhere. Grace flows freely into our hearts. As receptacles chosen to receive it, they redistribute it happily while enjoying this ineffable gift. What are our breaths of life in this moving immensity? Nothing actually, except for the fact of loving and serving, however little it may be.

"Being an instrument of the Divine entails admitting facts according to priorities which we cannot assess in terms of their necessity and their implications in the world of humans. Let us be strengthened in God, in his power of regeneration, without which the whole of creation would go drifting off, as it would be deprived of a force unifying its expansion. Whatever may happen, we will not be separated any longer, but united in Him and strengthened in his Infinite Love."
