Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Monday, January 16, 2006 – 4:00 p.m.

This remembrance celebration, which many of our followers await, has kept its power of attraction by its impact on hearts. Our respective birth anniversaries have their own distinctive feature, a kind of tradition, operating successfully each year. Though they are geared towards the same goal, these days are characterised by a striking vibratory effect according to our personalities, as they were on the Earth.

"Our incarnate son, your current Master, will also leave a profound mark proportionate to his action within our Mission. This tradition of Masters has its raison d'être. Being incarnate makes it possible to carry out the large-scale work necessary to establish strong foundations in the world and to produce a significant spiritual impact; this requires a body of flesh. The repercussions of this activity are felt well beyond this planet; men are not aware of that, nevertheless the results are there; we can only notice it and be delighted.

"Keeping traditions in our way must remain a priority, a duty of memory, but much more than that. It is the enrichment of a way whose future will live on – in its increasingly stronger aspiration for the Divine – by contributing to the complete transformation of mankind. May our beloved son remain courageous in the face of the scope of such work. Only he, in the current state of affairs, can achieve wonders by his experience and his higher vision of the world where our way is being established, slowly but very surely. He is the central axis of it, the inspired wise man and the firm hand, to act where and when necessary. Our blessings are particularly bestowed on him, before being extended to all our aspirants, active and potential. With you all, more than ever."
