Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Friday, February 24, 2006 – 10:00 a.m.

The egregore of the Mission is growing, more as an attractive force than in terms of the number of participants – for the present time. It is thus consolidating its position in this world, establishing solid foundations therein. These foundations are essential; the Spirit must work by preparing an era of openness and widening of the collective consciousness, without which humanity cannot progress. An immense work remains to be done. Our way is taking part in it through the spiritual commitment it offers. Its features go in the direction of this elevation, which is unprecedented in the history of humanity as it is currently known. Our aspirants cannot easily figure out what humanity will be in the future. The main thing is to take an active part in this movement by fostering its rise through satisfactory personal work within our way. The process is taking place slowly, and yet so much progress has been made since the first members of our system.

"Have mentalities changed among our abhyasis? These mentalities follow the general trend that is fostered by the work being carried out in our Mission, and they benefit from a transmission of divine energy, specific and instructive. Our brothers and sisters – in and of themselves – are strategic points in this vast system of transformation, which the majority of humans cannot yet perceive. To be on the path, in our way, is to join an ascending movement, which the futures of our abhyasis will benefit from, irrespective of where they are located. By being vibrationally refined, they win a privileged space, partaking of this salutary and liberating movement. May they all be carried towards the highest summits!"
