Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, March 1, 2006 – 10:00 a.m.

In the long run, when you have seen the impact of these messages in hearts, you will understand why there are such a large number of them. Isn't life a ceaseless repetition of all the most insignificant acts that punctuate the days? Everything is constantly renewed; such is the manifestation of the creative power, not well understood by men. How could they grasp it, when it is not recognised as such? The mystery remains intact on this aspect. That is how it is in this cycle of darkness – a trying one for humans as they are cut off from a fundamental reality. Based on wrong assumptions, they develop theories, leading them to building a world according to a personal vision of things. Convinced of the importance of their knowledge, they go beyond this planet and try to conquer space with a domineering mindset, aimed at laying down their laws. One day, they will necessarily admit to their limited knowledge based on erroneous basic principles. In many circumstances, men act like the bad characters of science fiction movies that come and persecute Earthmen. This is a popular subject with an audience that plays at conceiving scenarios, like children – which they have remained.

"We have repeated this before, the evolution of the Earth has not yet gone beyond its elementary stage. May humanity grow in wisdom and rise above the baseness of a world doomed to the worst torments if it does not radically change. The era of an unprecedented open-mindedness is on the way. It will emerge out of suffering; everything will have to be re-examined, transformed, in terms of the vision of things and the application of highly spiritualised principles. The world of matter is preparing for its mutation; it will take long and will be testing, as is proper in such circumstances. Let us work towards that change for the elevation of men into a better world, where eventually they will be able to blossom and live in peace."
