Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Saturday, April 8, 2006 – 10:00 a.m.

Your heart comes seeking in us the substantial nourishment that makes it live and vibrate intensely. Its deep yearning is there, and it is its unique goal after the many battles that led it to what is essential. Following a spiritual way urges the seeker to unload useless burdens that slow down his progress. Before God, all men are equal; His laws are not theirs. Humanity will have taken a great step when all become aware of this. The skin colour, the social class, or any other prerogatives do not grant any privilege whatsoever in the face of the rigour of sacred principles.

"To rise spiritually requires sustained attention. The margin of error is reduced in proportion to one's progress, allows no vague approximation. Engaging completely in this way is a decisive choice in an incarnation, when it can bring one towards the highest level of realisation. Doing everything possible to achieve the goal is praiseworthy. Many of our brothers and sisters are devoting themselves to this, and they obtain the expected results. They are given the opportunity, and they recognise this. They throw themselves into this quest, which will not disappoint them. The way is arid in the face of oneself, of one's own tendencies that are tenacious and often disconcerting when perseverance is not enough. Realising this and acting accordingly, shows one's determination to overcome them. What is spiritual can be part and parcel of this struggle, by helping to overcome difficulties.

"Human nature cannot be easily understood. There are so many factors involved that we will not elaborate on them herein. The only thing to be considered is the method that is capable of ironing out the harshness that constrains such progress. Blessed are our brothers and sisters who fight and advance towards the goal, without being diverted from their targeted objective. Their practice helps them to find their bearings, to detach themselves from useless things and inappropriate battles, where they were misled by illusory remarks in the past. The truth resides elsewhere. It belongs to them and nobody other than their Master can help them find it. Let there be light for all."
