Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fifth Revelation

Thursday & Friday, August 3 & 4, 2006

My dear son, you will soon have good elements around you. Some of them, in particular, will become solid pillars. They will support, with the means they will be given, the Mission of tomorrow, fostering its extension in the world of men. This gathering, of which you are the originator, is placed under our protection. May it seed hearts and, beyond various comments and arguments that will be developed, may its effects be far-reaching.

"Please spare yourself. All this energy expended around you is gratifying, but you should not exceed reasonable limits. You are the heart and the spirit of the Mission. Your role is not finished, and it holds a growing importance, in relation to its expansion in the world of matter. It already has a great impact on future times by preparing people for massive and unprecedented changes expected to secure the future of humanity.

"Take care of yourself, my very dear son. You are so precious to my heart, as well as to all those who love you here and care for your dear person by supporting you in their respective ways.

"We are really imposing on our messenger [the medium]! May all possible love carry you more than ever, with increased intensity! What separates us from each other is illusory. You know this, my son – you are so very blessed."
