Whispers from The Brighter World

A Fifth Revelation

Wednesday, January 3, 2007 – 10:00 a.m.

We have come such a long way together, full of discovery and a deepening of the laws governing the world of the Spirit, which have influenced our lives significantly. Under the aegis of our Divine Guide, our horizon has widened, further highlighting the complexity of all creation in its vastness. Our hearts were fortified as they moved alongside the greatest Beings in this world where conflicts of people do not exist. Our vision of life became more serene, since at this stage only the beautiful and the immutable last. Let us preciously keep this treasure within us as long as we have to stay on Earth, before eventually being able to approach Him for good."

The Medium: "My Master, it all takes on another meaning by your side, by opening up to me a perspective on the infinite in these special journeyings. My heart was shaped through hope and increased devotion towards all that relates to the divine splendour manifested in the person of our Beloved, as well as in yours. Nothing is done without true reason, more so at this level than elsewhere. Perhaps it had to be expressed this way, with all these messages accumulated over time. Only utmost surrender is sovereign in this matter since 'what must be will be'."

"Uniting your two hearts and putting them in harmony with each other was no easy task, but as the above mentioned saying goes, with time, everything was perfectly set up and achieved as per our wishes. These writings – given their uniqueness and their future impact on the hearts of our aspirants – will leave their mark on the history of my son as the head of this Mission that is so dear to us. Thus is achieved what must be, by divine will."
